Hi family, My name is Jocelyn, a grateful recovering addict. The weather is turning down, starting to feel that fall weather! My favorite! We have a spaghetti Dinner fundraiser coming up on the 15th for the Convention! I hope a lot of you can make it to support the convention! I’d like to thank the convention committee members who work all year to make sure we have everything we need for the convention. It always a great turn out. I hope everyone has a safe and happy Halloween!

Your newsletter Editor/Chair, Jocelyn D.
Many Narcotics Anonymous members have found Hospitals and Institutions service to be an important part of their personal recovery. Our members, who actively participate in H&I service are very important resources in our fellowship. A commitment to H&I service is one of the many ways to become involved with the NA service structure and helps us feel a part of our fellowship. We know that active addiction leads to jails, institutions, and death. Also, NA’s primary purpose is to carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers. It is not surprising that carrying the NA message of recovery into hospitals and institutions is one of our priorities. NA members have consistently supported this belief by forming Hospitals and Institutions (H&I) committees around the world. Still, some NA members have been reluctant to become involved in H&I service because they have never been incarcerated, arrested, or institutionalized. With our personal experience and proper preparation, all of us are uniquely qualified to carry our message of recovery.

November 16, 1965 Bill again responded to a similar inquiry. His letter read, in part: ‘When these Steps were being done, I didn’t want to repeat the phrase ‘character defects’ twice in succession. Therefore in Step Seven, I substituted ‘shortcomings’ thereby equating ‘shortcomings’ with ‘defects’ When reading most people do equate that way and there seems to be no difficulty. I used them as though they both meant exactly the same thing—which they appear to many people. I guess it’s a problem in semantics, all right. For example, it is possible to say that each time you fall short of an ideal, to that extent is your character defective. Looking at it in the other way, ‘shortcomings’ can be read as a mere failure to do what should have been done. So I guess you have to take your pick —Addy.

DEAR ADDY

Dear Addy, What is the difference between character defects and shortcomings? -Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

Addy has always looked at a character defect as the root of the problem and something that is part of me and a shortcoming is something that is part of me and a shortcoming is a shortcoming. I prefer the word ‘defect’ over ‘shortcoming’ and use the phrases interchangeably in the steps in a personal letter he wrote dated March 7, 1963. Thanks for your inquiry, requiring to know the difference between ‘defects of character’ and ‘shortcomings’ as those words appear in the Steps. Actually I don’t remember any particular significance in these phrases. In my mind, the meaning is identical, I guess I just used two ways of expression, rather than to repeat myself. It’s just as simple as that.

H&I Hospitals & Institutions service and the NA Member

Many Narcotics Anonymous members have found Hospitals and Institutions service to be an important part of their personal recovery. Our members, who actively participate in H&I service are very important resources in our fellowship. A commitment to H&I service is one of the many ways to become involved with the NA service structure and helps us feel a part of our fellowship. We know that active addiction leads to jails, institutions, and death. Also, NA’s primary purpose is to carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers. It is not surprising that carrying the NA message of recovery into hospitals and institutions is one of our priorities. NA members have consistently supported this belief by forming Hospitals and Institutions (H&I) committees around the world. Still, some NA members have been reluctant to become involved in H&I service because they have never been incarcerated , arrested, or institutionalized. With our personal experience and proper preparation, all of us are uniquely qualified to carry our message of recovery.

November 16, 1965 Bill again responded to a similar inquiry. His letter read, in part: ‘When these Steps were being done, I didn’t want to repeat the phrase ‘character defects’ twice in succession. Therefore in Step Seven, I substituted ‘shortcomings’ thereby equating ‘shortcomings’ with ‘defects’ When reading most people do equate that way and there seems to be no difficulty. I used them as though they both meant exactly the same thing—which they appear to many people. I guess it’s a problem in semantics, all right. For example, it is possible to say that each time you fall short of an ideal, to that extent is your character defective. Looking at it in the other way, ‘shortcomings’ can be read as a mere failure to do what should have been done. So I guess you have to take your pick —Addy.

DEAR ADDY

Dear Addy, What is the difference between character defects and shortcomings? -Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

Addy has always looked at a character defect as the root of the problem and something that is part of me and a shortcoming is something that is part of me and a shortcoming is a shortcoming. I prefer the word ‘defect’ over ‘shortcoming’ and use the phrases interchangeably in the steps in a personal letter he wrote dated March 7, 1963. Thanks for your inquiry, requiring to know the difference between ‘defects of character’ and ‘shortcomings’ as those words appear in the Steps. Actually I don’t remember any particular significance in these phrases. In my mind, the meaning is identical, I guess I just used two ways of expression, rather than to repeat myself. It’s just as simple as that.

H&I Hospitals & Institutions service and the NA Member

Many Narcotics Anonymous members have found Hospitals and Institutions service to be an important part of their personal recovery. Our members, who actively participate in H&I service are very important resources in our fellowship. A commitment to H&I service is one of the many ways to become involved with the NA service structure and helps us feel a part of our fellowship. We know that active addiction leads to jails, institutions, and death. Also, NA’s primary purpose is to carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers. It is not surprising that carrying the NA message of recovery into hospitals and institutions is one of our priorities. NA members have consistently supported this belief by forming Hospitals and Institutions (H&I) committees around the world. Still, some NA members have been reluctant to become involved in H&I service because they have never been incarcerated , arrested, or institutionalized. With our personal experience and proper preparation, all of us are uniquely qualified to carry our message of recovery.

November 16, 1965 Bill again responded to a similar inquiry. His letter read, in part: ‘When these Steps were being done, I didn’t want to repeat the phrase ‘character defects’ twice in succession. Therefore in Step Seven, I substituted ‘shortcomings’ thereby equating ‘shortcomings’ with ‘defects’ When reading most people do equate that way and there seems to be no difficulty. I used them as though they both meant exactly the same thing—which they appear to many people. I guess it’s a problem in semantics, all right. For example, it is possible to say that each time you fall short of an ideal, to that extent is your character defective. Looking at it in the other way, ‘shortcomings’ can be read as a mere failure to do what should have been done. So I guess you have to take your pick —Addy.

DEAR ADDY

Dear Addy, What is the difference between character defects and shortcomings? -Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

Addy has always looked at a character defect as the root of the problem and something that is part of me and a shortcoming is something that is part of me and a shortcoming is a shortcoming. I prefer the word ‘defect’ over ‘shortcoming’ and use the phrases interchangeably in the steps in a personal letter he wrote dated March 7, 1963. Thanks for your inquiry, requiring to know the difference between ‘defects of character’ and ‘shortcomings’ as those words appear in the Steps. Actually I don’t remember any particular significance in these phrases. In my mind, the meaning is identical, I guess I just used two ways of expression, rather than to repeat myself. It’s just as simple as that.

H&I Hospitals & Institutions service and the NA Member

Many Narcotics Anonymous members have found Hospitals and Institutions service to be an important part of their personal recovery. Our members, who actively participate in H&I service are very important resources in our fellowship. A commitment to H&I service is one of the many ways to become involved with the NA service structure and helps us feel a part of our fellowship. We know that active addiction leads to jails, institutions, and death. Also, NA’s primary purpose is to carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers. It is not surprising that carrying the NA message of recovery into hospitals and institutions is one of our priorities. NA members have consistently supported this belief by forming Hospitals and Institutions (H&I) committees around the world. Still, some NA members have been reluctant to become involved in H&I service because they have never been incarcerated, arrested, or institutionalized. With our personal experience and proper preparation, all of us are uniquely qualified to carry our message of recovery.

November 16, 1965 Bill again responded to a similar inquiry. His letter read, in part: ‘When these Steps were being done, I didn’t want to repeat the phrase ‘character defects’ twice in succession. Therefore in Step Seven, I substituted ‘shortcomings’ thereby equating ‘shortcomings’ with ‘defects’ When reading most people do equate that way and there seems to be no difficulty. I used them as though they both meant exactly the same thing—which they appear to many people. I guess it’s a problem in semantics, all right. For example, it is possible to say that each time you fall short of an ideal, to that extent is your character defective. Looking at it in the other way, ‘shortcomings’ can be read as a mere failure to do what should have been done. So I guess you have to take your pick —Addy.

DEAR ADDY

Dear Addy, What is the difference between character defects and shortcomings? -Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

Addy has always looked at a character defect as the root of the problem and something that is part of me and a shortcoming is something that is part of me and a shortcoming is a shortcoming. I prefer the word ‘defect’ over ‘shortcoming’ and use the phrases interchangeably in the steps in a personal letter he wrote dated March 7, 1963. Thanks for your inquiry, requiring to know the difference between ‘defects of character’ and ‘shortcomings’ as those words appear in the Steps. Actually I don’t remember any particular significance in these phrases. In my mind, the meaning is identical, I guess I just used two ways of expression, rather than to repeat myself. It’s just as simple as that.

H&I Hospitals & Institutions service and the NA Member

Many Narcotics Anonymous members have found Hospitals and Institutions service to be an important part of their personal recovery. Our members, who actively participate in H&I service are very important resources in our fellowship. A commitment to H&I service is one of the many ways to become involved with the NA service structure and helps us feel a part of our fellowship. We know that active addiction leads to jails, institutions, and death. Also, NA’s primary purpose is to carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers. It is not surprising that carrying the NA message of recovery into hospitals and institutions is one of our priorities. NA members have consistently supported this belief by forming Hospitals and Institutions (H&I) committees around the world. Still, some NA members have been reluctant to become involved in H&I service because they have never been incarcerated, arrested, or institutionalized. With our personal experience and proper preparation, all of us are uniquely qualified to carry our message of recovery.

November 16, 1965 Bill again responded to a similar inquiry. His letter read, in part: ‘When these Steps were being done, I didn’t want to repeat the phrase ‘character defects’ twice in succession. Therefore in Step Seven, I substituted ‘shortcomings’ thereby equating ‘shortcomings’ with ‘defects’ When reading most people do equate that way and there seems to be no difficulty. I used them as though they both meant exactly the same thing—which they appear to many people. I guess it’s a problem in semantics, all right. For example, it is possible to say that each time you fall short of an ideal, to that extent is your character defective. Looking at it in the other way, ‘shortcomings’ can be read as a mere failure to do what should have been done. So I guess you have to take your pick —Addy.